At Meeting

Safety was brought home to a about 125 representative citizens Friday night in the the Castleton hotel.

In his usual hard fitting fashion, Captain Joseph McCann of the Pennsylvania State Police addressed a safety rally sponsored by the Mayor's Traffic Study committee and other organizations. It was not a pretty picture Captain McCann painted, but it was an effective one. Out of the meeting is expected to come an organized county wide campaign for safety upon the highways.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 11.—
Police picked up a man who had been arrested on morals charges for questioning today in connection with the brutal slaying of 12-year-old Carol Kensinger.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 11.-(INS) One of the most thorough man-hunts in the history of Allegheny county was underway today as po-lice sought desperately for a clew to the fatal stabbing of a 12-year-old Pittsburgh (Brushton) schoolgirl. Veteran police officers described the 35 stab wounds in the body of pretty, blonde Carol Kensinger as one of the "most brutal slayings in the county's history".

Shortly before midnight Friday the child's parents discovered her hacked body lying by an overturned telephone. A trail of blood led from the kitchen to the phone in an adjoining room.

One pool of blood was found near the sink and on the sink police found a knife that apparently was wiped free of bloodstains.

Police said the girl probably had been stabbed in the kitchen and had struggled to reach the telephone. Officers claimed only an adult could have inflicted such wounds.

Carol, a seventh grader, was wearing light blue slacks, a sweater and apron. There was no cvidence of robbery, according to the police.

To Speed Grand Jury Probe
The action in calling a Saturday session of the grand jury was considered indicative of the desire of Justice Department officials to wind up the current phase of the investigation before the term of the jury expires next Wednesday.

The investigation appears to be nearing its climax with indications pointing to at least one or possibly more indictments.

Federal district attorneys are laying the groundwork for continuation of the probe by a new special grand jury which will be sworn in Thursday.

The House un-American activities committee has predicted that the grand jury will indict Chambers for perjury on the ground that he allegedly first denied having evidence of espionage and then turned up the microfilms of secret papers on his Maryland farm.

The committee vigorously condemned such action as tending to Friday.

Mr. And Mrs. Fred C. McBride Golden Wedding December 14

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. McBride, of Hillsville, will observe their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, December 14. On that date in 1898, Miss Maude E. McCreary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom McCreary, of Hillsville, was united in marriage to Fred C. McBride, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McBride, of West Middlesex.

The ceremony was performed at high noon in the home of the bride's parents by Rev. J. L. Stratton, pastor of Hillsville M. E. church, in the presence of the immediate families. The couple was unattended.

Later in the evening, the bride

Mr. and groom left for West Middlesex, where they went to house-keeping, and where, for many years, Mr. McBride was engaged in his own blacksmithing business.

In 1922 the couple moved to Hillsville to make their home, Mr. McBride being employed by the Pittsburgh Limestone corporation until his recent retirement. Mr. and Mrs. McBride have one son, Willis M. NEW CASTLE NEWS

ONE MORE TRY

The big land plane belied down into the pitch-black chop of the Pacific, and hit with a smash. Water is incompressible, and the impact tore loose the life rafts the Army airmen had depended on to save their lives. The lights went out, and the men floundered in darkness as they abandoned the big craft that was already starting to founder.

The same applies to the military tribunal of victors authorized to pass judgment upon the vanquished. The same applies to the military tribunal in Tokyo, some of whose findings now are to be reviewed by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Thirty-five of the 37 passengers made it to two small rafts. A few moments later the great tail fin reared high in the air and disappeared, and the survivors were left terribly alone, hundreds of miles from the nearest land.

Their plight was instantly the concern of the whole Pacific military establishment. Half a dozen shipe, ineluding a huge carrier, altered course instantly. Planes from Johnston Island and Honolulu were already in the air. Planes flew close, but spotting the rafts was like finding a bead in a gravel driveway.

In midafternoon a Navy plane, its fuel low, was about to turn back. The navigator begged for "one more try" at a sector they hadn't covered, Minutes later they spotted a splotch of bright green dye on the water. In the middle of it were the rafts.

Forty hours after they had ditched their plane, the survivors were being lifted aboard the carrier "Rendova." Americans can take pride in the "one more try" philosophy, the concern for the safety and well being of comrades in arms that outweighs every other consideration.

STOCKFILE IS LOW

It seems incomprehensible that government officials a have forgotten so soon the raw material famine that broke the back of the country's war effort in 1942. At the time WPB officials vowed publicly that never again would the nation be caught with its stockpiles of strategic materials depleted.

But as of today, with two years of a five-year program already gone, the stockpile of materials on hand, or contracted for, amounts to only 40 per cent of the minimum requirements. Until recently the pile contained no supply whatsoever of half of the 60-odd materials on the skillfully that he would learn to pay attention.

Assembly of key materials was talked about in 1944, school. There is no conclusive proof that any genius has to day But the thing that gripes them dream so as to be a nuisance to his is that so many of the appeals jectives, which it did in January, 1945. Under the plan chosen, enough materials were supposed to have been provided to get the nation through a five-year war. The cost was set at slightly under $3,500,000,000.

Purchase of materials was started in 1946 on a small scale, to discourage driving prices skyhigh and to allow industry as much leeway as possible for reconversion. It is surprising to learn that since then little or no buying has been done I and time, zinc, all items of the most critical some some some some surprise is not a very happy person. has been done. Lead, tin, zinc, all items of the most critical nature have been almost totally ignored. What little there is in stockpile is from military surplus.

ECA is seeking to increase foreign production of some of the items by using Marshall Plan funds to build his room to change his shoes and he will be completely undressed and industries should be before he realizes that all he had up industries abroad. But in the event of a European war, se sources would almost certainly disappear with the

With echoes of 1942 still ringing in their ears, Washington officials should know how costly and dangerous is the practice of depending on foreign sources for the materials to run the nation's military machine. There is immediate and urgent need for a reconsideration of current stockpiling plans.

'PAINLESS' SAVING PAYS OFF

Some concrete results of regular, if modest, savings are reflected in the Treasury Department's reported that the sale of Series "E" Savings Bonds will reach a new peacetime high this year.

Examination of the figures discloses that there is a connection between the booming sales and the increase of 2,500,000 in the number of persons who have authorized of 2,500,000 in the number of persons who have authorized payroll deductions for the purchase of bonds.

This relatively painless method of saving is beneficial to the Nation as well as to the individual. It means that money which otherwise might have gone into bidding up prices still further is to some extent money removed as an inflationary force.

Economists may conclude that this increased saving in an errand or give him a simple command to carry out, be sure you that the command or direction before he starts to carry it out.

Assign him one or two regular jobs at home on which you always can easily check. If he does not do the job promptly and regularly, set a penalty, such as requiring him to sit in a chair without amusement for exactly 25 minutes. If he seems to enjoy this, have him stand ining, coupled with indicatoins of consumer resistance in some fields, is a sign that the general postwar price rise is nearing an end. The rest of us will be content to wait

But in itself the increased bond buying is encouraging. It shows not only that many Americans have the money to save, but, what's more important, they are of a mind to save it. This may be a significant contribution to their own and the Nation's future economic stability.

Many Frenchmen are insisting on a national campaign and an election, an attitude Republicans in this country find it difficult to understand.

America's present prosperity is founded largely on in-ornational disagreements, which may be a rather solid age at that. The world has always had them.

TRIAL

The daydreaming child may be a constant trail to his mother at home and his teacher at school. Now dreams by day, while the person is, presumably, awake, can be very useful. Great geniuses in various fields do a lot of daydreaming, and if they didn't the world would be poorer in many ways. However, some of the world's geniuses have been able to do their daydreaming at such times as not to interfere with other persons.

The genocide resolution, on the other hand, envisages establishment of an international body in time of presumed peace that will judge impartially and far removed from the highly charged post-war atmosphere of Nuernberg and Tokyo.

The possible scope of such an international authority is heavild.

Maintenance of concentration camps and slave labor, such as have been attributed so frequently to Soviet Russia, would appear to be one likely field of investigation and when this time comes many of the mysteries of Soviet political opportunism may at least be exposed.

They had spent the summer here and fallen in love with our scenery, the nearness of the water, the coolness of our summer climate.

That was the second reason. That was the second reason.

The first reason was that their son and his family were living within five miles of here and they wanted to be nearer to them than the 50 miles that separated them when they lived in New York.

The head of the family came to me with a complaint yesterday.

I am repeating it to you, because it is typical of so many communities, and it may be typical of yours.

When those people moved here a few of the neighbors called on them and welcomed them in courteous frigidity.

That was all.

Since then they have been wanted.

To many in the South this is not an academic question. On the contrary it can mean political life or death.

Since then they have been wan-dering around without making any friends or getting any taste of community life.

But they own their home and so hey are on the taxpayers' list. And that tax list in our community—and probably in yours, too—is the greater sucker list in

Washington Calling (By Marquis Childs)

Congress Seniority Rule Hampers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—In the aftermath of the Nov. 2 triumph a lot of brave talk was heard about how the Dixiecrats and other turn-coats would be read out of a purified Democratic party. That talk has gone with the wind and the prescription as of now is: More of the same.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—In the of the cepercussions if they should intervene in state organizations in the South. Such intervention, it is believed, would be deeply resented. The reform, the argument goes, must originate locally if it is to be effective.

Appropriations, foreign relations, District of Columbia, finance and expenditures in executive departments will all have chairmen from the South. In addition, Sen. Burnet R. Maybank of South Carolina will almost certainly be acting chairman of banking and currency, since Sen. Robert F. Wagner* of New York will because of continuing invalidism, be unable to take his seat.

Also, the chairmanship on aggi-culture will go to Sen. Elme Thomas of Oklahoma and Sen. Mil Thomas of Oklahoma and Sen. Millard Tydings of Maryland will take over the armed services committee. These are border states with a strong southern infusion in opinion and attitude.

This is, of course an unreal and abnormal disproportion. Considered from the point of view of population, the unbalance is seen to be even greater. On the seniority basis not a single Senate chair-

The consequence of seniority in the Senate is that six committee chairmanships go to men 70 years of age or older. The veteran is Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee who takes over appropria-tions. McKellar has already begun to fulminate in the press about hat he means to do when he has

At a large party, it is not necessary to say goodbye to everyone when you leave, but be sure to bid adieu to your host and hostess and thank them for a pleasant time.

BIBLE THOUGHT

Always Something New By PAUL GALLICO

The length of time one infests this planet apparently has little to do with the problem of getting wised up. There are always new and astonishing facts of life for a gent to catch up with, such as, for instance, the lamentable state of modern life which is leading his helpmeet, the Missus, to pack away all the prized possessions of the family in the manner of the provident squirrel embalming his winter's supply of puts

Take, as a matter of example, the affair of the naphins and table linen.

Like you, no doubt, at the time of giving and taking the promises that saw us made man and wife in the eyes of God and the Law, we were showered with the usual supply of monogrammed serviettes, doilies, luncheon sets, lace and needlework table cloths, linen dinner spreads and the usual dozen double damask danner nipkins, as Miss Beatrice Lillie would have it.

Reasonably Well Supplied

Down through the years, there were further birthday and Christmas gifts, fire and auction sales and bargain counter pickups that augmented the household table linen so that I would say we were reasonably well supplied for personal needs as well as any kind of guest emergency.

Lately, however, I have noted myself removing the post-prandial vestiges of corned beef and cabbage from around the edges of my kisser by means of a very fancy sheet of paper with deckle edges and the border handsomely decorated with roses and eglantine in two colors. The table mats to the eye gave the impression of lace, but upon closer investigation they turned out to be some kind of fraud made of plastic and painted to resemble the real article.

Shortly afterwards I came upon my Life's Partner in the ironing room, lovingly flattening out a favorite and well-remembered piece of luncheon dry-goods and surrounded by heaps of the old family table linen. Whereupon the following enlightening dialogue took place.

"Ah, my pet. It does my heart good to see you engaged in this useful spell of housewifery. I gather from this laudable activity that papyrus tablecloths, celluloid doilies and tissue puss-wipers are to be relegated to the waste-basket where they belong and at long last our household is about to return to the good old-fashioned . . . "

To Pack Them Away "Good old-fashioned nothing. I'm getting these ready to pack

'Pack away! But we're not going anywhere".
"Of course not. But these are. I'm putting them up".
"But what's the idea? If you put them all away we won't be able

"But what's the idea? If you put them all away we won't be able to use them and ..."

"Good boy, you're catching on fast. I don't propose to have these nice things ruined, that's all. If we use them they'll get dirty and ..."

"... and so send 'em to the laundry and get 'em washed, so what?"

At this point the Madame looked at me like one who was stark raving mad and abandoned by his senses. "The LAUNDRY" Indeed! You should see how things come back these days. Nobody can send anything nice to the laundry any more. They are going to be nicely packed away in boxes where nothing can happen to them. Two or three weeks of laundries and there'd be nothing left of them".

"But, my dearest own, explain to me if you can what is the difference whether they are packed away in boxes up on a shelf, or the mangles devour them. Either way WE don't get to use 'em. At least we could get some wear out of them while they lasted and ..."

"Oh dear ... I just don't see how it is possible for men to be so stupid sometimes".

Here Endeth The Dialogue

Here Endeth The Dialogue

Here endeth the dialogue, but the (to a gent) strange logic and similar deplorable extension of the failure of modern life to keep up with the preservation of nice things continues to haunt the household.

For instance, I have discovered that several of my favorite suits which when draped around my form make me feel a little like Adolphe Menjou when I fare forth, have vanished from their familiar residence in the clothes closet. Tactful inquiry has revealed that they have been in the clothes closet. Tactful inquiry has revealed that they have been "packed away," because so excellent are they in structure and material and so rare in workmanship and texture that the corner tailor can no longer be trusted with the job of sponging, cleaning and pressing. He would ruin them. Therefore they have been withdrawn from circulation".

A number of articles of antique bric-a-brac, vases, objets d'art, lamps, etc., have likewise disappeared from their usual haunts. The cause: the procession of parties marching through the joint with feather duster rampant have all been .400 hitters.

Well, the logic may seem askew, but darned if the little lady isn't right. The machinery of modern life neither understands nor respects fine materials or valuable articles. Nor do people seem to recognize or place the same value upon things that are beautiful. And so to protect them, one "packs them away". And then one hasn't got them either. Maybe there is another solution. Take pen in hand, brothers and sisters.

The 50 miles an hour speed limit is not a "must". On the contrary, the law demands that you drive at all times with due and reasonable care. It would be foolhardy to assume that we could drive at the maximum speed limit under all conditions. The 50 miles an hour speed limit The 50 miles an hour speed limit prevails in the absence of other restrictions, which might be in the nature of a school zone, a school bus loading or unloading passengers, posted speed zones, blind intersections, the weathknow what the Soviets are actually doing, even when they intimate what they expect to do, because they are liars. Our opinion has to be based upon such facts as we know to be true, such as things that we know are going on in and about Berlin. However, if we quit talking and did a little more acting we might get more of a true er, and other such conditions, and especially where the maximum speed would be hazardous under conditions then and there prevailing.

According to league rules each of the participating teams shares equally in the profits. However, this year, despite New Castle's brilliant 43 to 14 victory over Monongahtla, the winner's share was less than that of the loser by the amount of $214.00. This figure represents the sum total of damage charged to New Castle High followers in their over enthusiastic celebration during and after the game.

Perhaps the amount of $214.00 seems very small in light of the large amount that the school board received, but the adverse publicity and reputation of New Castle "sportsmen" that has resulted, are a costly price to pay for the contest.

Seventh Ward

Yule Program Given John In Making Christmas Light-

Eyes of Seventh Ward boys and girls fairly glistened on Friday evening, as Santa Claus in person rode down Liberty street in his shining jeep strewing canny treats as he went.

The occasion for the appearance of the jolly old fellow was the annual Seventh Ward Civic Club sponsored tree lighting event and outdoor yule program. Hundreds of citizens both large and small were hand for the impressive ceremonies which took place at the corner of Liberty and Cherry streets.

The ward, so that this project we be carried to a successful of clusion.

monies which took piece at the corner of Liberty and Cherry streets.

Manning Weller, president of the Seventh Ward Civic Club opened the program with a few well chosen remarks after which he introduced Rev. John L. Petrie, paster of the Mahoning Methodist church, who served as master of ceremonies. Rev. Petrie led the large outdoor audience in the group joined lustily in singing.

The school chorus was heard in several selections with the school band playing appropriate Christmas selections. Midway in the program, St. Nick in all his glory arrived contributing much to the excitement of the evening. The program continued with a jingle bell dance led by Miss Florence Rosser. This part of the program thrilled the interested spectators.

The Civic club has been working hard on the Christmas project this year with the result that lights on Liberty street extend South of the overhead railroad bridge. The lights add much to the Christmas spirit of the ward.

Plan Ward Scrap Drive Next Week

A scrap drive is in progress in the Seventh Ward in which boys and girls of the Mahoning school are the principal participants. The proceeds of the drive will be used by the Seventh Ward Civic Club to finance the Christmas light pro-

POSTPONE HEARING FOR "GIBBY" WELCH

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 11.—(INS)—The hearing for Gilbert L (Gibby) Welch, former All-American football player at Pitton a charge of felonious assault with intent to kill, had been post-poned today in Parkersburg.

Justice of the Peace H. B. Stewart set the hearing back because of the illness of Welch's attorney, Bruce Hoff.

Welch, 43, is charged with beating his wife Nov. 30. They were married Sept. 29, both for the third time, and parted Oct. 25, Welch said.

Welch, who is free on $2,000 bond, was captain of the 1927 Pitt team which went to the Rose Bowl.

Make This Christmas Merry By Making It A Safe One

One of the most precious memories of your life is that of Christmas morning with the kids. The tree, the lights, the presents and everybody happy in giving happiness to the others.

Your safe driving may mean that some other family circle will be unbroken on Christmas morning. On these busy Christmas shopping days, folks take chances in traffic, in crossing streets, in observing traffic lights. A little extra care upon your part may save an accident.

Carelessness can cost a life. It might be yours. Make this Christmas a merry one by being sure it is a safe one.

"A BEAN SHOOTER"

Boys get a lot of fun of a bean shooter. Sometimes they try them in school but the teacher doesn't seem to like it any too well.

Maybe it is not the best way to use beans anyhow.

Beans are a pretty important food stuff. They are rich in vegetable protein. Our bodies cannot get along without protein.

When mother cooks beans she usually puts some meat or milk in the pot with them. The protein of the beans works better when it is combined with some animal pro-ges and meat and milk provide

Eggs and meat and milk provide animal protein.

A small amount of pork takes care of a lot of beans.

A cow has more than one stomach. She can eat a lot of hay or beans or fodder and take care of the vegetable protein all right. Butch likes baked beans. They will help him to win the game.

Don't Know What To Expect

Now that President Truman has succeeded in revolutionizing the political setup of the United States Senate and the Eighty-first Congress by his tirade against the Eightieth Congress, we don't know what to expect after January twentieth. So the show that goes on in January will have striking similarities to performances from the recent past. From the veteran actors who will move on to the stage nothing very new can be expected.

Many newcomers, who found themselves elected on Nov. 3 to their intense surprise, will not like this. But whether they can do anything about it is something else again. The seniority rule seems to have been written on tablets of stone about the time of Moses. Its weight has crushed many an eager, crusading spirit.

6. Homemade equipment.
7. Remodeling existing structures as homes for hens.
8. Keeping up egg quality by better care.
9. Close culling to market higher-quality meat.
10. Keeping records to eliminate guesswork. A poultry account book will be of great help, and may be secured through the Extension Office by those desiring to keep complete records.
High annual production per hen is necessary for high receipts. Returns are greater when high production is obtained during the months of rising prices and highest egg prices. Large eggs bring a greater return than smaller eggs, particularly during this period September to December inclusive. Hence, the rearing program should be aimed to start at least a pay, if not all, of the chicks in January, February, or early March so this type of production can realize maximum returns. Experience is a costly teacher. It is not too early to begin planning for next year. Poultry management planning is a vital part of successful poultry raising.

posed establishment of Lawrence county as a Soil Conservation Bureau Friday morning at the meeting of the county commissioners.

Heading the group were W. Sharp Fullerton, state grange master, and Glenn Patterson, Pomona grange master. The position of the group stated jointly was this. They believe the soil conservation district plan is a duplication in many ways of the agricultural extension work done by the state and for that reason could see no reason for the establishment of a district in this county.

The commissioners explained they had come to no decision in the matter but were sounding out sentiment. They also said that Secretary of Agriculture Miles B. Horst of Harrisburg would come to New Castle sometime late in January for a mass meeting at which time objections to the plan could be presented.

Police Chief Urges Cautious Driving On Snowy Streets

"Take your time in wintertime. Please drive carefully"

This plea for cautious driving came today from Police Chief Robert D Hanna in the wake of the first appreciable snowfall of the year, who said: "Our job is to prevent accidents as well as investigate them—and we'd rather do the preventing. We don't like accidents any more than the people who are involved in them.. That is why I'm pleading to all drivers to be extra careful."

Chief Hanna said that some cars to be extra careful."

Chief Hanna said that some cars were reported skidding around. If a majority of these drivers had been going a little slower and had been groperly equipped for snowy weather—especially if they'd taken a few minutes to put on their tire chains or maintain clear windshields—skidding could have been prevented," he said.

In offering a solution to reduce the driving hazards caused by the snow, the chief listed vital precautions that should be adopted by drivers. They are: reduce speed when the streets are slippery, use tire chains, keep windshield wipers and defrosters in working condition to provide the best visibility, and see that headlights are functioning.

and see that headlights are functioning.

He further pointed out that inadequate traction is a major cause of accidents in this kind of weather. "All of us as drivers should know what little traction we can get on snow or ice. The most reliable advice for preventing accidents when road surfaces are very slippery is to be extra careful, drive very slowly and apply brakes gently when you come to a stop," he declared.

BOMBER TRIP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(INS)
—The Air Force disclosed today that a new refueling technique has made it possible for a B-50 bomber to fly more than half again its normal cruising range with a "useful" bomb load.
The air force said the B-50, an improved version of the B-29 bomber, flew 9,400 miles non-stop using the new fueling method.
An air force spokesman said the normal range of the plane is 6,000 miles with a 10,000-pound bomb load.

miles with a 10,000-pound bomb load.

He added that the plane could have continued on "indefinitely" as long as the engine operated efficiently and the fueling technique was used.

make matters worse, his instinct of imitation was so strong that he could not resist yawning when he witnessed the act in others.

His unprincipled pupils, of course, were not slow in discovering and exploiting his weakness. When they tired of his lectures, they would simulate yawns, the professor would follow suit, and then stand helpless with his mouth wide open until his assistant could arrive and shut it. The pupils, meanwhile, were far, far away.

Professor Maclourin has now been retired on a pension.

New Castle Wins Thriller From Youngstown East 38-37

Fighting 'Canes High Athletes Win Third In Row

That just about tells the story of the melodrama that took place last night at the packed Washington High gym, as the fighting New Castle High basketball team romped to the wire, a bare nose tip ahead of the scrappy Youngstown East quintet, 38

Reed Comes Through

Trailing in the first few minutes of the final period, 33 to 24, young Don Reed put on a "Frank Merriwell" finish for the some 600 fans, none of whom were sane in the last 15 seconds, to give New Castle the lead of 38 to 36. Reed in the stretch New Castle Elks lodge No. 69 and to give New Castle the lead of 38 to 36. Reed in the stretch drive bagged three field goals and two fouls.

The game could have ended in a tie at 38-38 had John Santillo, of East, made both his foul shots with 15 seconds left to play. But, he only made one. New Castle got the ball and "froze it" for the final seconds.

It was the third straight triumph for the George "Gig"
Thomas coached machine that wasn't supposed to have too

Standing out brilliantly in the stunning win was Reed, Dick Lewis and Phil Conti, on offense, and Tony "The Rock" Cialella punch by Exard Charles in 5th round of their scheduled 15-rounds at Madison Square Garden last night. Charles clinched a June shot at Joe Louis' world heavyweight title by scoring a TKO in the 11th round. The referee stopped the fight in 2.33 of the 11th round to save Baksi from further punishment. He was cut badly over his eye.

Charles Stops Baksi In Eleventh Round

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—They weren't exactly carrying Cincinnati's Ezzard Charles and his svelte 178 pounds around on their shoulders in festive, unrestrained glee today. Nor was a fund being raised, as yet, that would turn the humble, rose-bowered cottage of his birth into a national shrine.
But, whether New York like him or lumped him in last night's eleventh-round technical knockout of old flat-wheel, 210½-pound Joe Baksi at the Garden, Charles at the moment was very close to the bingo number of pugilism's great lottery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—James G. Freedom Laces

Cardinals in tune for a victory march Sunday.

They play the Chicago Bears, a name which is enough to make strong men quake and piano-players go into a dirge.

Putting it another way, the winners of the game at Chicago will qualify the club to meet the Philadelphia Eagles for the National league championship. The Bears are favorites.

The clubs have identical records of 10 victories and one defeat for the season.

The Bears, in fact, already have been set up to take not only the Cardinals but to go right on to the championship a week later against the Eagles.

These are not the fabulous Bears we used to know but plainly they are tough enough to convince everybody that they are hard to take.

everybody that they are hard to take.

Maybe the old piano-thumper, Conzelman, will be able to do something about that, and in this connection one thing is certain—he will be giving it the old college try along the sidelines.

There is always the possibility that Conzelman will pull something out of the hat to offset the opposition. The something could be Charley Trippi, one of the greatest backs in pro history.

But it looks like a tough afternoon for the Cardinals, barring the hat trick.

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 11.—
A dim outlook on European affairs was painted by Rev. Calvin Rose of New Castle when he spoke to members of the American Association of University Women in the faculty lounge at Westminster college Thursday evening.

Rev. Rose, who recently returned from a trip to Europe, told of the terrible hunger and of the bitterness with which Americans are regarded by certain segments of European people. He condemned the present limitation on the number of displaced persons allowed to enter this country.

Rev. Rose urged the organization to do all in its power to alleviate the suffering of the Europeans through the sending of food and clothing.

football coaching job at the Pitts-burgh school.

When Coach Kass Kovalcheck resigned last Saturday, the Very Reverend Francis P. Smith, president of Duquesne, said the Dukcs wanted a "big name" coach. But all of the applications have been from comparative unknowns.

The latest report, however, from a source close to the university is that Jordan Olivar, head mentor at Villanova, has applied for the job. If he has, he is the only applicant who could be termed big time.

Minor league representatives, is executive session at Minneapolis, voted that stations may broadcast or televise home and road games provided the transmitter is located within 50 miles of the home ball
